This gives 25,000 farms all told, or at the rate of 50,000 farms per approximate the concurrent increase of foreign emigration indicates where the greater proportion of our 50,000 new families are coming from, and this emigration is largely due to our increased exports. Seeing American staples and American manufactures, American flour and beet, American tools and fabrice gradually occupying their markets, the people of Europe, and especially of Germany, are stimulated to seek better fortune in a land so blessed by nature, and so enriched by commerce. The fact that we are free from all danger of war, and that no military service is required here, also undoubtedly has its attractions but in this there is nothing new. The additional impolise to the migratory movement, of late becoming so noticeable, has undoubtedly been imparted by the exhibit we are making of our products good, warea and merchandise in the markets of the old world.

Several citizens of Sand Hill district, who moved West with a view to bettering their condition, have returned wiser and convinced that "there is no place like home."

The farmers are about done cutting their wheat, and the yield promises to be extraordinary good, and on account of the large acreage sown, this will surpass sny crop of wheat varieed in this county within the last thirty years.

We learn that the Ohio Valley Iron Works at this place have enough orders now on hand to keep them runningsteady for five weeks. We hope this is true and that other orders may be received in the meantime to keep it running as much longer, and so on.

Now that our farmers are in the midst of harvest, the heavy-limbed hulking tramps that whined at the door for something to eat, evale the rural districts. Farm hands are scarce at good wages, but these fellows who are hunting work, with the hope this three will find it not, were rever scarcer than now.

The New York Grain Market.

The New York Grain Harket.

New York Dispited to Yesterday's Buitinme San.

An attempt has been made, in the last lew days, to give the grain market here and abroad an upward turn. So far as the advantage relates to corn, it is said to be based on an unfavorable appearance of the Western crop, which is alleged to have suffered from the unusually cold weather which prevailed in May and a portion of June. This is claimed to be an undeniable fact, but it is also positively asserted that the uninterrupted and scorching heat of the past two weeks has caused a growth such as probably no two previous weeks exerasw, and the setback, or damage, is claimed to be recovered hold of to stop lowes on the other aide is but natural. of the war, and millions of money have been awamped.

The grain crops are enormous everywhere. Celifornia, four or five years ago, allowed over 800,000 bushels of grain to rot in her fields became of the over abundant harvest, and the same is predicted this year. It must be admitted, however, that for the moment there is a demand for grain. Corn especially, from localities that have not been free buyers hitherto—the very cheapness of the article as a food attracting attention. Havana has increased her orders largely for Indian corn, and there are other foreign constries that are more liberal buy-to in her fields because of the over shouldnt havest, and the same is presented the property of property o

THE BOOK OF CHRONICLES, Being a Short Account of Ruthe ford, the Son of Hayes, an Namuel, the Son of Tilden. For the limitimes.

For the flastifismers.

1. And it came to pass in those days that the people cried out with a lend voice for a new ruler to rule then; and lo a great multitude made unto themselves one, and his name was Rutherford, the son of Hayes.

2. He was a goodly man, but there are see a great cry sgainst him by a multitude, who fain would have Samuel, the

7. They were exceeding wroth with him, for that he would not bow down and community has adopted in their steed, worship them.

8. They would fain have Ulyases, the son of Jesse, to rule over them again, the cound of their voice is even now heard in the land,

18. They laughed and sang with joy, everything was fruitful beyond measure. The cattle skipped to and fro on a thousand hilbs but much money was not.

19. Behold it came to pass in those days there were those who liked not work, neither would they toil nor spin, yet Bolomen in all his glory was not as idle and lay as these.

20. These were called Tramps; some of them belonged to the tribe of Samuel the son of [Tilden, and some of them to that of Butherford the son of Hayes.

21. They would ask alms of the honsewife, and if they get them not would lay violent hands on her, and best termine well and the seven to savery meants.

22. They slept in barns, and in fields, and the next day lay in wait for the way-faring man, and would sak alms of him.

23. And after having got the same, they would fall upon him and beat him with sticks, and take his serip and raiment from him, were to his nether garments, and send him almost naked through the land.

24. Now the Tribe of Samuel said things would be no better while Butherford ruled.

25. Yet did the tribe of Rutherford any that things would be to be whelp he right cot the power; but as to whigh is right cot the power; but as to whigh is right.

the way Out of Hard Times.

As unofficial but well authentiated estimate puts the land asset by our. Western railroad, during the first half of this year, at 1,250,000 acres, the largest sales were made within the same period of time. We can hardly speak of this as an increase, because, as compared with this great amount, the vales of last year and former years are wholly insignificant. The facts of the case have to be considered by themselves to ascertain their means ing and their bearing on the welfare of the country.

In the first place, it must be remembered that these immense real estate transactions do not consist of sales by one farmer to another farmer, involving a mere change of ownership. They are sales, interly-inte times in a hundred, of wild forest and prairie lands to actual settlers, involving the breaking up of virgin woll and the opening of new farms.

This means the addition to the country.

This means the addition to the country within the last at the coolly, it must be most distant and the country of t other in the circumstance of the city authorities that the electric light, while it is admirable for equares, monuments and fees, is not so well adopted to general use as ordinary coal gas. The electric light for a while was quite the fashion at all the grand receptions and halls, but the ladies soon found out that it made piak complexion appear white, and white yellow. It is hardly necessary to add that the ladies have no further use for the electric light. In the yellow light of gas the dear creatures can make themselves appear charming, but in the fierer light that beats about the moonlike globes wrinkles cast shadows; and even dimples turn black. Thus the native hue of the resolution to introduce the electric light into Paris is sicklied o'er by the pale cast of countenances.
